The Shape Of Me

Using a large piece of butcher paper or poster board paper, have your child lie down and then you can trace the outline of your child on the paper. Talk about circles, squares, triangles and rectangles. Draw different parts of your body on the tracing (eyes, ears, nose, fingernails, etc.) and then count up the various shapes. Talk about how a variety of shapes make life interesting and how everyone is unique and special. Decorate the tracing using yarn, fabric, glitter, etc. and hang up the tracing to celebrate the shape of your child!
